Lighted Match Starts Fire in Store Roof

Fire on a roof in the rear of 138 North Main street, formerly occupied by the U. S. Army Goods store, was extinguished with but slight damage to the roof yesterday afternoon.

Rubbish thrown on the roof was ignited by a lighted match, according to fire department officials. Companies No. 1 and 2 responded to the call.

HARD-SOFT LARGE-SMALL CORNS

Out To Stay Out--Roots and All Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails. No More Burning Aching Feet.

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights — then lift corns and callouses right out—roots and all and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the salts right to roots of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy—vigorous—hard skin on heels and toes goes also.

Bradley's Drug Store and all good drugstores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't insist upon them ordering it if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort.—Adv.

Kiwanians Hear Talk on Trip Through Japan

"Thirty Minutes in Japan" is the subject Mrs. Frank Sifritt chose for discussion at the weekly luncheon of the Marion Kiwanis club at the Marion club yesterday.

After giving a description of her tour in Japan, Mrs. Sifritt declared the only way to look towards world peace is for the individual to acquire an amicable outlook on other nations. She said the Japanese are very courteous, thrifty and industrious, and impressed her very favorably.

Fourteen Hours, New York to Chicago

Maintained speeds which so far as the general public knows, have never been even so much as contemplated much less planned are said to be the answer one of our great railroad systems has in mind to the competition of air transportation

The Pennsylvania railroad's electrification of its lines is said to be part of a program which will enable it to move passenger trains at speeds as high as ninety miles an hour which will mean the cutting off of six hours off its New York Chicago schedule making it a fourteen hour run

Not only is greater passenger speed planned but greater freight speed and efficiency as well, the expectation being that by the time the electrification is made complete the road will be moving fifty per cent more freight than at present and three times as much as was moved thirty years ago

By way of illustration, the electrification plans being worked out for the Pittsburgh district of the road look to a time when 5 000 cars of freight will be moved through the Pittsburgh gateway between the East and the Middle West daily And what is to be done in the way of betterments in the Pittsburgh district will be done in somewhat lesser degree in the New York and Philadelphia districts, which are now being made ready for electrification

"It is claimed that electric power is necessary for high speeds which are to be sustained for distances of 500 miles and beyond hence the determination of the Pennsylvania people to electrify its main lines

Beyond question, a rate of speed which will enable a railroad organization to deliver passengers in Chicago fourteen hours after leaving New York will be a decisive answer to any competition air transportation in its present development can offer.

Present Phone Rates Disapproved.

Regardless of what may be the ultimate outcome of the rate case now before the city and the Ohio state utilities commission it may be said that the city has won a signal victory before the public utilities commission In the finding of the commission is more sweeping than it was forecast would imply It was not only a victory for the city officials for the people of Marion but is an assurance to all the people of Ohio that the state utilities commission will protect them on proper showings against excessive rate charges by public utility corporations

The commission has ordered the company to refund to its subscribers $11 009 which constitutes the excess collected for telephone service from August 1 1925 to December 31 1928 over and above the amount required to insure its stockholders a return of seven per cent—which the commission holds a fair one—upon their investment the value of the company's property being fixed at $1 125 577 04 and it gives notice of another refund of approximately $70 000 to be ordered to cover the excess rate of the overcharges from December 31 1928 up to the time the company shall put into effect a schedule of rates to comply with the commission's order

This revised schedule of rates the commission order shall be such as would have produced during the period from August 1 1925, to December 31 1928 had they been in force $112 000 less than the company collected during that period and the commission further orders that the company shall effective at once exercise diligence in determining what excess amounts have been collected from each subscriber during the period from August 1 1925 to the date of the acceptance by the commission of the revised rate schedule that computation of excess charges to each subscriber be completed within six months and that refund in cash of excess charges with interest at the rate of six per cent, annually be made to each subscriber at the end of the six month period In the event of inability to locate a subscriber to whom any refund and interest is due the company is ordered to pay the refund and interest thereon to the treasurer of the county or other political subdivision in which the excess amount was collected

The report shows that the aggregate of these excess amounts for the last five months of 1925 was $10 410 1 It increased in 1926 to $26 210 80 In 1927 it was $34 776 79 and in 1928 it amounted to $40 897 81 These amounts it will be noted made up the $11 025 5f ordered returned

Some rather interesting figures are carried by the report on the matter of depreciation At the time of a reorganization of the company—or the predecessor—in 1923 it cites a depreciation reserve of $ 7 3 13 was dropped and a similar reserve of $ 047 of went the same way in 1927 The record shows that the actual depreciation was not over 1 81 per cent a year and that the depreciation expense shown on the company's books was not over 5 13 per cent with a maintenance charge of 4 49 per cent from which it figured at 3 61 per cent on appraised valuation of the company's property was a fair measure for depreciation

On all these showing the commission found that the rates provided by the company's rate schedule were excessive and ordered that the schedule filed by the company and made effective under the Lence law August 1 1925 by the execution of its bond to refund any amount found by the commission to be in excess of proper charges be disapproved

The outcome of the utility commission's consideration of the local telephone rate charges it goes without saying is a great triumph for Grant L Mouser Jr who represent the city for it five years the matter has been before that body That he guarded its interests ably the order disapproving the rates at present charged makes plain

AN OLD ORDEAL

The entire world deeply has been touched by the spectacle of American Gold Star mothers journeying overseas to kneel at the graves of their sons who died and were buried in the white crosses which mark the graves of fallen heroes far away France

Many of these devoted mothers no longer are young, but they have faced all trials fatigues and dangers of this pilgrimage with the loyalty and love as devout as that which led to the establishment of motherhood They have been welcomed and honored by foster governments lovingly assisted in the performance of a sacred rite and all the world has followed in sympathy with their grief and longing. In honor of their sacrifice—and well it should Here within represented not only France with its glorious romance and spirit of national patriotism lives gave the keys to the city to the first and truest society of war wives, a fitting gracious gesture at home across the leading seas Then as no human memorials have done through the ages they made in altar of their sorrow and left before it with reverence and affection that unspoken threnody of surpassing strength and human dedication through the centuries of time guides prayer

Not any will but think, be sure

At Suresnes or wherever their pilgrim feet led them under twinkling little lights among the white crosses in communion with the appointed representatives of their country and the dignitaries of foreign governments they turned their prayers and shed their tears under the sun and the dew while with them has prayed and wept the mother heart and the fatherhood of the world In this sad world's balance the great government of the United States could in fact in its appreciation of the sacrifices borne by the mothers of the republic who gave to it their sons in last redemption grant —Cincinnati Enquirer

A TRAP BUZZER OF ARCHAEOLOGY

Dr J Walter Fewkes, who died a day or two ago at his home in Chestnut Maryland did not attract the attention of the general public very much perhaps But the labors of a considerable part of his all so eighty years of life he was a significant figure among the workers in American archeology and ethnology and as director of the long famed Bureau of American ethnology at the Smithsonian Institution he utilized valuable facilities and opportunities for advancing knowledge of the walks and ways language and religious rites of the aborigines in North Central and Insular America

Dr Fewkes was one of very few white men who have been initiated as priest into the secret rites of the Hopi Indians and his preferment was illuminative of his sympathetic and understanding character in dealing with the Red man as much as it was a proof of the extent of his erudition which was large and earned for him from the Hopis and Walpis the hosts for five years the title Medicine Bowl

It also was to the high credit of Dr Fewkes that he first introduced modern methods of preservation into American archaeological exploration and so saved a vast amount of knowledge and records of the past to the race One of his particular individual outstandings achievements was the excavation and repair of the temples and dwellings at Mesa Verde in the national park in Colorado. Although he did many other things in other localities and fields, this was the accomplishment that probably was nearest his heart and which probably will be most identified with his name as years pass

The pioneering work of Dr Fewkes can scarcely be estimated at this time but it is at least clear that in placed archaeological and ethnological research on this continent on a truly scientific basis as much as any one man has done so far —Detroit Free Press

A BRITISH VIEW

While the capital punishment committee was hearing important evidence whether murdered victim was discovered at Bethlehem Germany indicating that the grim episode of Russell Gray is in process of being repeated

How can the law deal with such a criminal? Should he be fed clothed and guarded at the taxpayers expense his health preserved his necessities provided for until death takes him off the state's expense account?

The question is not an easy one to answer The taking of human life whether by murder or by order of the law shocks the sensibilities of every normal man and woman

But the perpetration of such deeds blinds what terrifies any ordinary onlooker It would no matter that the health of the rest of the body required the amputation

In the protection of the body politic the Japanese knife must be used until capital punishment is all but done away with—by the murderers — London Express

Correct Diet Faults

BY ROYAL S COPELAND M D

Proper nutrition is the most important problem confronting the young mother It is a constant battle to carry out a program that will assure nutrition for the normal growth and development of the child

Unless a child has all that he may properly very early in life there is reason that he will be wholly sickly but he does suffer more frequently generally But this is not all for all sorts of troubles are apt to go with it —not the least of which are tooth colds and other skin troubles

The matter of nutrition is the genesis child is so important that it should be shouted from the housetops People are so busy they do not want to be bothered Well, there is just one thing about it he is the person out there to look after this precious health of your child

Every mother should inform herself about the vitamines and all the simple rules of hygiene which have to do with the health of a young child Study a good book on the care of a child There are myriads of them Consult your family doctor about the best combinations of foods for your child and follow his directions

Up to the time of weaning a child about a year old the diet will have been carefully directed Before the teeth are formed the child can be given cereals properly cooked and strained so that indigestible fiber lumps or even small particles are left in it

Even cereals for a young child should be strained in a double boiler for two or three hours. This should be done no matter if your cereal is advertised as a quickly cooked variety It is only after long cooking that the cereal grains are made soft and nutritious

After weaning a child should still have plenty of milk to drink but the amount will be reduced somewhat to afford an appetite for some of the solid foods Cereals with whole milk several varieties of strained vegetables and fruits may be given

Cream soups and strained vegetable soups are excellent Lamb beef and chicken broths with rice or tapioca are excellent for the child's lunch eon

Introduce all the new foods gradually and in very small amounts Follow your doctors orders as to what these foods shall be

Most children from the time they are a few weeks old are given orange and tomato juice The child up to two years should follow this rule

Youngsters can not have strong bones pure blood and healthy tissues without painstaking care by the parents in their proper feeding. Regulations for food plenty of food and the fresh air and sunshine make for their perfect health

Let me emphasize the necessity of sunshine for every child That radiant energy comes not from the visible rays of the sun but the ultra violet rays of short wave length These rays are most intense from 10 a m to 1 p m and in the summer months are more intense than in the winter Now is the time of year for the children to be out in the sun to get its beneficial effects.

There can be no danger from rickets or other degenerative diseases when your child has the proper food and sunshine and fresh air A proper study of this nutrition business and strict adherence to it covers the whole problem of health for the young child —Copyright 1930 Newspaper Feature Service, Inc

Dr Copeland will answer for readers of this paper, questions on mechanic hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. What Are Social Sciences?

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

The first chapter of the first volume of the great new Encyclopaedia of the social sciences a stupendous work projected by American scholarship bears the title of the present article This work deserves the hearty commendation and active support of the public. For at last a long last a comprehensive synthesis is here being attempted of the sciences which have to do with man in both his personal and social relationships

We may think of man as a separate individual, a distinct being aside from his social relationships We may also think of man with reference to the role he plays in the social group There are individual qualities, characteristics wants of man considered as a separate entity But there are also qualities characteristic wants which express themselves primarily through group action

The phenomena associated with group activities carry the name of social phenomena Such phenomena are classified and interpreted by sciences known as social sciences The social sciences may be defined says Seligman, as those mental or cultural sciences which deal with the activities of the individual as a member of a group

While the state was a somewhat belated arrival among human associations it is nevertheless probably true that politics which concerns itself directly with the functions of the state, is the earliest of the social sciences With the extraordinary upheaval produced by the World war and the consequent dislocation of many long established political entities there has seldom been a time in world history when politics and the state were so imperatively in need of intensive study and scientific analysis

Furthermore the growth of commerce the opening of new channels of intercourse the invention and rapid development of new means of communication the constant creation of new world markets all have given a predominantly economic cast to modern life. Political economy—or, as we now prefer to say, social economics—permeates and influences as never before the history of nations

It is coming to be recognized nowadays that social processes can not be properly understood and adequately interpreted without the medium of history While history, throughout the ages has maintained the union of art and science within comparatively recent years it has grown steadily more scientific and more rigorous in its method

Lastly jurisprudence accentuates the close interlocking relationships between law and economics Any adequate legal system must always reflect the material forms of social life Jurisprudence is fully recognized today as one of the social sciences —Copyright 1930 International Feature Service Inc

DRY ISSUE BECLOUDS OHIO PARTY RALLY

Dispute of Democratic Leaders Over Prohibition Breaks into Victory Dinner.

dress was devoted altogether to a prediction of victory for the Democratic hosts.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene of Canton also took a fling at the prohibition question, assailing the Anti Saloon league, its leaders and its policies.

"Leaders of the Anti Saloon league do not care what your habits are," he said, "just so you will bow down morning, noon and night to Westerville and vote as Westerville dictates. If you will do this, you will get Westerville's support—providing you are a Republican."

Cox declared he had no intention of becoming a candidate. He pointed to the merits of the Democratic candidates now seeking the governorship and the senatorship and told his hearers that it was not necessary to draft any one.

Both Cox and Pomerene promised their voices would be heard throughout Ohio this fall in support of the state and senatorial ticket.

Cox introduced Jouett Shouse of Vermont, chairman of the national Democratic executive committee; George White of Marietta, Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, former Senator Pomerene and Davey.

"I unhesitatingly favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment," Cox said. "As between the old saloon evils, with its beastly appetite and its vicious whiskey, and the present evils I would prefer the latter, but we all prefer not to be compelled to choose between these two extremes. Both are repugnant."

The former Ohio governor charged the favored government with favoritism and control of alcohol.

After making his startling statement the former governor forcibly added that if his party can not achieve repeal then from the possibility of candidacy he felt sure that he had eliminated himself.

Criticizes State Policies

The speech was the first political address Cox has made in several years. In addition to his prohibition remarks he former governor struck at what he charged was the failure of Republican administration to develop the power we have against that was inaugurated during the first Cox term and continued in his later years as executive.

Sloane in his address scored the economic aspect of the Hoover administration, attacked President Hoover for not calling the Hoover bull market and warned the public of its consequences and rapped the present tariff bill now being ironed out in the house senate conference. He predicted the President would sign any tariff bill presented to him. Shouse further hit at Ohio's two senators, asserting they were mere rubber stamps and that the state was deserving of better representation.

White in a short talk said the state needed more attention to the problems of state government and less oratory.

HARDING SENIORS HOLD CLASS DAY

gram of music by the high school orchestra, under the direction of F. R. Lane. When Nassana's march, "Connecticut," was played, the seniors, in caps and gowns advanced down the center aisles of the parkett. Dwight Bargar, senior class president, and Hayes Newby, president of the junior class, stood on the stage to receive the 197 seniors.

The class song was sung, after which Bargar gave the class address. He voiced the regret of the seniors at parting, but held up bright hopes for the class of '31, and challenged them to set new records for the high school. Newby responded with a farewell address to the seniors, mixing humor with earnestness.

On behalf of the senior class, Bargar presented Harding High school with a check for $25 as a gift of remembrance. The check was presented to K. H. Marshall, principal, to be used for a school purpose.

Robert Knauss presented a piano solo, 'Country Gardens' by Grainger, followed by the reading of the class history by Miss Bernice DeMasters. The history told of the various activities in which the senior class had taken part in the three years at the high school building.

Class Will Clever

Miss Martha Weaver and Miss Helen Dorsey gave a clarinet and flute duet, 'Second Reverie,' Pabo. The class will was a clever idea. Three girls dressed in deep black and sitting behind large placards of "chief mourner" and "assistant mourners" went copiously while Robert Clevenger read the class will, bequeathing characteristics and hobbies of the seniors to the junior class and members of the faculty. Martha Schwenforth, Helen Dorsey and Harold Lindsey were the committee in charge of writing the will. Harold Lindsey was the lawyer presiding at the reading. Miss Martha Schwenforth was the stenographer. The mourners were Enid Little, Jeanette Cox and Helen Dorsey.

Miss DeMasters sang a solo, 'Down In the Forest,' Simpson-Rouild. The class prophecy was presented by a group of seven seniors attending a picture show at which Jack Elliott ushered. Comments from the patrons on the various presentations on the theater bill, and neighborly chat, brought out the futures of the class of 1930. Those taking part were Elliott, Lowell Haldeman, Miss Violet Doll, Miss Martha McGee, Miss Jane Leach, Miss Twila Gilbert, Miss Ethel Bray and Miss Ula McNamara.

The awarding of the honors and singing of the class song concluded the program. The audience remained seated while the class marched out to the music of 'Just For Fun" Simpkins played by the orchestra.

The stage was attractively decorated with baskets of peonies, orange blossoms and other spring flowers. Two tall wicker vases at either end of the stage held peonies, delphinium, roses and lilies.

First World War Group Back From France, Ohio Woman Ill at Verdun.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 6—Each with a calm and happy light in her eyes, 227 American war mothers came back today from the battlefields and cemeteries of France.

They had answered the call that had been tugging at their hearts for 12 long years, and, as one of them expressed it on landing in Hoboken from the S. S. President Harding today:

"Now I'm satisfied. I know where he is and what it's like there."

It was the first unit of the pilgrimage, made possible by an act of congress, that returned today. All save one of those who sailed on the America with Captain George Fried came back.

Mrs. Florence Williams of Portsmouth, O., is still in Verdun, recovering from bronchial pneumonia.

WITH FONA S. DOTSON

LIFE in Paris is entertainingly portrayed by Anne Green in her novel "The Selby." The story is vivacious and well told.

Leaving her southern home to take up her residence with her husband in Paris, Virginia Selby finds much to interest her in her own household in Paris and her cottage at Andresy. She carries beautifully to an almost enviable place on the social ladder and charms her friends with her delightful Southern manners. She is not disappointed in the excellent marriage of her two daughters and settles herself to a life of comfort and ease.

The calm of the Selby household is disturbed by the arrival of a penniless niece from America. Mrs Selby meets the crisis as she has met all other crises in her lifetime and sets about to launch the niece in Paris.

Under Aunt Virginia's capable management and a term at an exclusive Parisian finishing school the fair Barbara acquires a poise which forces into the background her longings for the crowd at the corner drugstore and an orgy of innocent dissipation.

Barbara's happy facility for getting herself entangled in numerous and near serious love affairs supply an interesting and surprising angle to the story and the reader expects most anything to happen at any time.

Historian Tells Adams' Ancestry

THE Adams family according to James Truslow Adams in his biography "The Adams Family", is the only American family that generation after generation has consistently made contributions of the highest order to our history and civilization.

Beginning with John Adams of Braintree, Mass., descendant of an English yeoman farmer who settled in Boston about 1636 he traces personalities and contributions of these successive generations.

"In the continental congress, as envoys to the courts at Europe at trying times, as presidents in the White House twice, as incessant writers, the Adamses, John, John Quincy, Charles Francis and then the fourth generation John Quincy, Charles Francis, Henry and Brooks have left footprints of varying depths in the sands of their times.

"The present head of the family is a third Francis Adams. Harvard graduate and lawyer. Like the rest, who is secretary of the navy that the original John founded when the United States was newly re-

Here he tells the story of two devoted English brothers who love the same girl, a situation that is solved on the battlefield.

Another novel Kathleen Coyle's "A Flock of Birds" is distinguished by the beautiful tragedy it makes of a mother's feelings while her son is in prison awaiting execution.

Literary Mystery in New Novel

SOMETHING of a literary mystery has developed over "The Return of the Hero" published as the work of Darrell Figgis an Irish writer and political leader who committed suicide in 1925.

When the novel first appeared abroad it bore the pseudonym of Michael Ireland. Immediately James Stephens, the noted novelist and poet was suspected of having written it. However, he then said there were only two men in Ireland who could not have written the book, Darrell Figgis and himself.

In an introduction to the American edition, Stephens reports his skepticism regarding Figgis' authorship but carefully refrains from disclaiming it as he does in the case of Stephens' Irish Fairy Tales & rise from the same pen Christmas and that Ireland told.

Meat Loaf Available in Varying Range of Flavors

Meat-Loaf and Near-Meat Loaf

IF MEAT-LOAF is a popular dish in the family, it can be served frequently in a varying range of flavors. Flavorings, meat and vegetable combinations can be altered, and there is no limit to the different kind of sauces to accompany this simple but wholesome dish.

In preparing meat-loaf of raw, chopped meat it must be remembered that something of flavor is lost in the process of chopping, and this may be supplanted either by seasoning or other combinations. Beef, for example, is pepped up if mixed with another meat like ham, sausage, or any chopped smoked meat.

Another advantage of meat-loaf, especially on days when cooking is arduous and one is tempted to reduce it to a minimum, is that it can be served more than once. Left-over meat-loaf can be used as sandwich filling, or as the basis of a hot meat sauce to dress spaghetti, macaroni or rice. It can be mixed with bread-crumbs and formed into stuffing for tomatoes, onions, peppers, eggplant.

Plain Meat-Loaf

1½ pounds chopped raw beef.
½ pound chopped ham.
½ cup cracker crumbs.
½ cup milk.
1 egg.
1 small, finely chopped onion.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
¼ teaspoon nutmeg.

Mix together and place in a greased loaf pan. Put a few bits of suet or strips of bacon on top and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

Serve with tomato sauce or mixed pickles.

Veal-Loaf (Cold)

3 pounds leg of veal and bone.
½ pound sliced ham.
2 eggs, hard boiled.
1 lemon.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.

Place the meat in a deep saucepan, add the thinly peeled lemon rind and add enough cold water to cover. When it comes to a boil, reduce heat and let simmer until tender. Strain and set the liquid aside to cool. Remove meat from bone cut into dice. Place slices of hard-boiled egg on bottom of a mold. Add meat and lemon juice and seasoning to the liquid, pour all into the mold, then place in refrigerator to get cold. It will take a number of hours, then it can be unmolded and served on a bed of lettuce or other salad, accompanied by a mayonnaise or other thick cold dressing.

UP EIGHT MILES

Navy Aviator Possible Winner of New Altitude Record.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 6 — Lieutenant Apollo Soucek, high-flying naval aviator, today awaited word from the bureau of standards that he had set a new altitude record.

He soared nearly eight miles above the earth late Wednesday, his special altimeter recording 42,000 feet, but its graduations were so fine, that he could not tell whether he had exceeded the 42,122-foot record held by Willi Neuenhofen of Germany.

If the checking of his instruments proves he did not break the record Soucek plans to have another try at it soon, and he believes he can go even higher by using a wooden propeller instead of the metal type employed yesterday or by increasing the pitch of the metal one.

Officials Investigate Lorain Charity Unit

Mayor L. Don Jones, Safety Director T. E. Sonnamaker, Service Director D. J. Harlow, and other city officials were in Lorain Wednesday to investigate the Goodwill Industries set-up of that city. The Goodwill Industries is a charitable unit where poor and jobless persons may be given work repairing worn clothing, which is sold to the needy at a minimum price.

No effort will be made to establish such a set-up here at present, Mayor Jones said today.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—chief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors and dietitians because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets.

ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CREAM SAUCE SHOULD BE UP TO ITS NAME

Creamy Property Essential in Serving; Lumps Evidence of Amateur Cook.

EVEN though there must be cream in sauce, it shall not have the texture of cream. All too many rush in cookery as a white sauce with flour in it. Which is very easy to do if all that is necessary to cook the paste in the first place many times make sauce at home by rolling flour in butter.

To make sure of the right texture the temperature of the flour and milk must be right. If the milk is added slowly and the mixture stirred constantly. If salt is added to the flour in the first place before the liquid is added, there will be no lumps.

RICHER and CREAMIER

Folks once traveled miles for it — now you can get it anywhere

....this richer, creamier mayonnaise called Ivanhoe. Once it was the treasured possession of a mother and her own family. But good things can't be be kept secret. And the fame of her home-made mayonnaise spread. Her friends asked her to make it for them ... in such increasing numbers that a great business was the outcome of her home specialty!

Today, although Ivanhoe's fame is nation-wide, the same home recipe is used. Choice eggs with the finest oil and spices are still employed. Yet it costs no more than ordinary mayonnaise. Once it's tasted Ivanhoe is the constant choice of any family.

Buy it almost anywhere in quarts, pints, half pints, or in 3¼ oz. jars if you are a "kitchenette family."

"SALAD LEAVES" is a unique booklet of salad recipes and balanced menus. Write for your free copy to Harriet Meaker Osborne, Ivanhoe Kitchen, Auburn, N. Y.

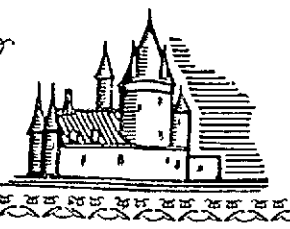
IVANHOE Mayonnaise

CREAMY FLAVOR
that surpasses the promise of its rare aroma ... That is "Chateau" ...
TASTE its mild zestfulness



MELT a golden sliver of "Chateau" on your tongue ... How mildly zestful ... Creamy flavor that comes from an old cheese-making process now introduced here by the Borden Company ... "Chateau" slices smoothly ... Spreads like butter ... Delicious on crackers, on bread, or melted on toast ... Unusually good with pies and fruit ... And in cooking ... It gives distinction to soups, soufflés, a dozen different cheese dishes ... Use it today.

"Chateau"
The Aristocrat of All Cheese Foods

Don't forget ... "Chateau" Pimento is a treat in creamy flavor, too. Try a package.
